

GVD on the Move

22 September 2008, to response the rapid IP surveillance market growing, GVD has taken advantage of the expanding of Sales, Marketing and RD Department to move Taipei Headquarters and upgrade its facilities. It has now moved to a newly-refurbished office at Taipei Business Center.

Good natural lighting, modern air conditioning and comfortable facilities among the benefits to the employees. The departments have been re-organized to ensure a fluid and intelligent flow of information throughout the company and an improved, functional team working environment. "The new office facilitates RD research, development, product demonstration, customers training and activities necessary to enhance GVD business quick expanding", said by Steve Chu, the CEO of GVD, "This helps ensure that customers get the best possible service, both in terms of quick responses to enquiries and in the knowledge of the teams".

GVD strives to constantly provide the best service in the IP Surveillance field and our new innovation technology plays an important part in this offering. Here, customers can visit the new headquarters to learn more about particular technologies and products, arming them with the knowledge they need to provide the best solutions to their customers.

"We're carrying out this move in line with GVD's commercial expansion and to better reflect the quality of service we aim to deliver to our customers," said Steve, "GVD is all about service, so ensuring the best environment for staff and customers alike are of paramount importance."
